

DETECTIVE SUPERINTENDENT HAMISH MCKENZIE

WESTERN AUSTRALIA POLICE FORCE

Hamish McKenzie is a highly accomplished law enforcement professional with over 38 years of experience in policing. Hamish was the previous head of the WA Police Sex Crimes Division and Chair of the Australia and New Zealand Child Protection Working Group (Operation Griffin). In 2019, Hamish was seconded to INTERPOL's Crimes against Children Unit, where he collaborated with the UK Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office to prevent transnational child sex offenders from gaining employment in international humanitarian aid organizations. This experience provided him with invaluable insights into the global landscape of sexual crimes against vulnerable members of our community.

ONLINE REPORTING - SAFE2SAY

This session will showcase Safe2Say, an anonymous reporting platform developed by Crime Stoppers WA in close collaboration with WA Police, academics, and industry partners. The platform's unique combination of anonymous, two-way communication and trauma-informed design has made it possible for individuals to report in their own time, on their own terms. Safe2Say significantly improves the capacity of police, particularly within sensitive investigative units, to safely and effectively engage with victim-survivors.
