SMALL STEPS FOR HANNAH

Michael Jeh designed and now presents Hannah's Story around Australia to a multitude of audiences. He has been working in the DV education sector for 20+ years, long before it became the touchstone issue it is now. He cites the collaboration with Tasmania Police as the most significant milestone in this journey to help save lives through the courage and grace of Small Steps 4 Hannah.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS: A SHARED RESPONSE TO PREVENT FAMILY VIOLENCE

Tasmania Police, in collaboration with the Small Steps 4 Hannah Foundation and the Department of Justice, has introduced specialised face-to-face workshops on coercive control training in collaboration. Delivered to approximately 2,500 participants so far, this session will explore how the program equips police and communities to disrupt family violence effectively, framing it as a collective societal responsibility.
