

LEADING SENIOR CONSTABLE MICK ROSCOE

AUSTRALIAN FEDERAL POLICE

Mick Roscoe Federal Agent, Professional Development Team, Operational Safety and Practice, Learning and Development Command. Mick Roscoe has over 52 years of combined experience in the British Royal Marines and three Australian Police Tactical Groups (PTG), with active service in Northern Ireland and Iraq. He has played a pivotal role in curriculum design and training implementation in South Australia, Queensland, ACT, Iraq, and the Asia-Pacific region. Mick's academic studies and research publication on stress, perception, and memory during life-threatening incidents aided the development of Threat Assessment Dynamics (TAD); methodologies designed to enhance cognitive and physical performance under extreme pressure.

THREAT ASSESSMENT DYNAMICS: UNDERSTANDING BEHAVIOUR IN HIGH STRESS ENVIRONMENTS

This session will cover Threat Assessment Dynamics (TAD), an evidence-based course designed to improve officer safety, decision-making and operational outcomes during weapon-related critical incidents. It is grounded in cutting-edge research on the neuroscience of human performance under stress.
