

ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER SANDRA BOOTH

AUSTRALIAN FEDERAL POLICE

In July 2024, Sandra was promoted to Assistant Commissioner AUKUS Command. Sandra is responsible for the design and delivery of the AFP's security strategy to support the Australian Nuclear Submarine program, managing the AFP's commitment to the Australian Defence Force through the provision of Protective Services and building a future-ready Protective Service Officer (PSO) workforce committed to contributing to Australia's sovereignty.

Sandra has been a member of the AFP since 2000 and has a broad range of policing and leadership experience across domestic and international domains, including commanding the AFP College, Counter Terrorism, Organised Crime, Child Protection, Protection Operations, Community Policing and Investigations.

THE AUSTRALIAN FEDERAL POLICE'S ROLE IN THE AUKUS INITIATIVE

Established in July 2024, the AFPs AUKUS Command is responsible for the delivery of the AFP protective security overlay in support of the Australian Nuclear Submarine Program, under the AUKUS initiative. This session will explore how AFPs Protective Service Officer workforce is resilient, agile, informed, security conscious and future ready, capable of protecting Australia's national interests over the next decade and beyond.
